Johnson Asks Bargaining In Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson took over the airline strike negotiations today and told both sides he wants them to reach agreement through collective bargaining.

After a White House meeting with Johnson, 11 men from the management side and 11 from the union side marched across the street to the executive office building and went into session once more.

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Johnson set no deadline for action.

"He said," Moyers reported, "that collective bargaining is the free, democratic way of settling the differences you have this morning, that that's a better way than legislating the breaking of a strike, or seizure, or presidential fiat."

Moyers, talking with newsmen after sitting in on the original session in the Cabinet room, said Johnson feels that continued, prolonged negotiations now are no more likely to bring about a settlement than intensified, concentrated bargaining.

It appears, Moyers said, that the differences between labor and management have been narrowed to something less than $25 million. He said the companies have been offering about $60 million above present pay and benefit standards and the unions have come down on their demands to $80 million or a bit more.

Moving in on the negotiations with an after-midnight summons calling the parties to the White House, Johnson beat Congress to the punch on an effort to dump the dispute into his lap.

At the Capitol, the Senate Labor Committee went into unusually early session to round out a measure of its own aimed at ending the strike.

Johnson's action came as negotiators talked into the early morning at the Labor Department, which announced "some progress" but no tentative contract agreement between the striking machinists' union and the five grounded airlines.

There was no immediate indication how Johnson's move would affect the confused situation in Congress.

The Senate Labor Committee was to complete action on one bill to give Johnson authority to stop the strike, while Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., planned to take a stiffer proposal to the Senate floor.

In the House, Labor Committee Chairman Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., scheduled a new hearing on the strike.

The strike, crippling 60 per cent of the nation's air traffic, unleashed a flood of critical mail on the heads of members of Congress and officials of the Johnson administration, and posed a tough congressional election year quandary.

Serious economic losses piled up in many parts of the nation.

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, declined to say whether Johnson now would keep the negotiations under his thumb, as he did to avert a threatened nationwide railroad strike in 1964 and a steel strike threat last year.

Johnson's decision to try his own persuasive brand of labor mediation was announced by the White House at 2:30 a.m.

after frequent telephone consultations with the Labor Department on the progress of negotiations.

The cautious report of some progress by Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds was the first hopeful note in the deadlocked negotiations in two weeks.

Johnson has no legal authority to halt the strike under existing law.

The Senate Labor Committee voted Thursday to empower Johnson to order the strikers back to work for as many as three 60-day cooling-off periods. The committee was to wrap up details on the bill for Senate action today.

The Morse Bill, rejected by the committee, would have Congress rather than the President order the 35,000 striking machinists back to work for six months.

"Congress, I think, has the clear duty to act, not ask somebody else to act," Morse said in announcing he would bypass the committee and take his proposal directly to the Senate.

The Senate committee's 11-5 vote, after rebuffing the plea of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz for more time to seek a settlement, followed accusations by some senators that Johnson was trying to pass the buck to Congress.

The committee's proposal, in effect, would pass the buck right back to Johnson.

But it also would give the administration the extra time it asked, leaving it up to Johnson whether and when to order the strike halted.

Organized labor, which influences millions of votes, violently is opposed to any law limiting the right to strike.

The only similar emergency law since World War II, enacted in 1963 to block a threatened strike of railroad firemen, outraged labor leaders and resulted in three years of court litigation. Wirtz called that hasty legislation a "scar" on the nation's labor relations.

While Johnson's intervention seemed to at least get the grounded airline talks back on the runway, it appeared it would take at least several more days before any settlement might come.

A major stumbling block in the stalemate is Johnson's own economic policy that seeks to

LBJ Meets With Wilson At Capital

Premier To Hinge Talks On Sterling, Austerity Moves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, here for talks today with President Johnson, will outline crisis efforts to save the pound sterling — and perhaps disclose to Johnson new austerity moves ahead.

Although Johnson recently was angered by Wilson's public disavowal from a presidential decision to bomb oil facilities near the North Viet Nam cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, discussion of the war clearly was destined to take a back seat to talk of Britain's crushing monetary problems.

Moreover, it was known that Johnson's displeasure at Wilson's Viet Nam statement was softened considerably by the British leader's austerity moves and his recent performance in Moscow, where he voiced vehement opposition to any attempt by Hanoi to try captured American pilots as war criminals.

With the fate of the pound sterling topping the unwritten agenda, there were indications some American officials felt Wilson might be forced to go beyond last week's announced austerity directives if he is to save his country's currency from disaster.

These officials — and it was not clear if they represented majority sentiment within the government — seemed convinced Wilson eventually must seek a mandatory freeze on wages and prices to help stabilize the pound at its present level of $2.80. They apparently felt last week's freeze initiated by Wilson was shot through with loopholes and that, in the end, only blanket legislation would achieve results.

These people appeared hopeful Wilson would disclose to Johnson plans to ask Parliament for just such a mandatory

Pacific Hunt For Stilwell Slated To End

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Pacific Ocean search for Brig. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and two companions will end at nightfall today unless something is found to warrant an extension.

Navy units suspended their search Thursday night.

Navy and Coast Guard ships have covered 129,000 square miles since Sunday, when the pilot of the DC3 plane reported one engine out 525 miles southwest of San Francisco.

The plane was to have been delivered to the Thailand air force.

Stilwell, 54, was commander of the Army's Special Warfare Training Center at Ft. Bragg, N.C. His companions on the flight were Hal Grimes of Pacific Palisades, Calif., the pilot, and Harold Fossum of Montclair, Calif.

Apology To Fulbright

CIA Head 'Bows' For Letter On Critical Editorial

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., called today for the resignation of Richard M. Helms as director of the Central Intelligence Agency, despite Helms' apology to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new director of the Central Intelligence Agency has apologized to Sen. J. W. Fulbright for a letter expressing pleasure at a newspaper editorial critical of Fulbright.

But CIA head Richard M. Helms still is scheduled to go before Fulbright's Senate Foreign Relations Committee in closed session today, certain to face questioning about the letter published over his name in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

After disclosure of the letter triggered protests and criticism in the Senate, it was learned Helms telephoned Fulbright, apologized and told the senator in substance "it was a mistake and I regret it."

The Arkansas Democrat confirmed receiving the call from Helms. He said the CIA director told him "he was sorry and regretted the letter and said he didn't really feel that way about me."

"I was glad to hear that," Fulbright said.

The letter which touched off the controversy said: "I want to let you know of my pleasure in reading the editorial 'Brickbats for Fulbright' in the Globe-Democrat of July 8."

"It reflects so well your paper's policy of 'printing the news impartially, supporting what it believes to be wrong, without regard to party politics,'"

The editorial concerned the Senate's action sidetracking an effort by the Foreign Relations Committee to gain a role in Senate supervision of the CIA.

"Sen. J. W. Fulbright has been given his comeuppance by the Senate," the editorial began.

The agency's activities now are overseen by a special Senate committee composed of senior members of the Armed Services and Appropriations committees.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who led the effort to give members of Fulbright's committee spots on the CIA watchdog panel, brought the letter to the Senate's attention. He said it was "entirely out of order" and said Helms "owes an apology to every member of the Senate."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, "I'm more than a little surprised that the director of the silent service has seen fit to write such a letter."

Helms, a career CIA employee, was nominated by President Johnson on June 18 to succeed William F. Raborn as director. The nomination later was confirmed by the Senate.

Pilots Blast Targets In North Viet

One Craft Downed During Heaviest Attack Of Conflict

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American pilots gave North Viet Nam its heaviest pounding of the war Thursday with more than 375 strike sorties against targets from the 17th Parallel to a missile site near Haiphong.

The cost was one Navy jet shot down by ground fire. The Reds fired only three of their Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles, and all missed, a U.S. military spokesman said.

Clearing weather and a heavy concentration of Navy planes and Marine aircraft which started flying bombing raids against North Viet Nam 10 days ago enabled the Americans to send up about 60 more sorties than had previously been flown in one day against the North. A sortie is one attack flight by one plane.

U.S. spokesmen do not reveal the number of sorties flown over the North. Instead they use the vague term "missions" which can mean any number of aircraft against any number of targets. The practice is designed to keep exact information from the Hanoi regime.

However, qualified sources said that the number of sorties Thursday was in excess of 375. The previous high was about 315 sorties flown July 15. The figure in recent weeks has averaged 250 to 300 daily.

The targets hit Thursday included a missile site only four

Police Pelted With Rocks, Fuel Bombs

NORTH AMITYVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—A crowd of 400 Negroes pelted police with rocks and gasoline bombs Thursday night after an outdoor meeting intended to improve community-police relations.

Seven men and two women were arrested. All were charged with disorderly conduct, except one man accused of assault. One policeman, Salvatore Chiuhiolo, was hit near the eye by a broken bottle.

It took a force of 330 steel-helmeted police three hours to restore order in this predominantly Negro community on Long Island's south shore about 40 miles from New York City.

The crowd chanted "kill those cops" as it moved through a shopping center, pounding on patrol cars and hurling cans and other missiles. A supermarket window was smashed.

38 Passengers Unhurt As Bus Loses Wheel

DUNREITH, Ind. (AP) — The right rear wheel flew off a Greyhound Bus doing 55 miles an hour on U. S. 40 east of here Thursday, causing $1,500 damage to the bus headed for Columbus, Ohio—but the 38 passengers escaped injury.

So did the driver, Harold Maggard of Indianapolis, who fought the steering gear for several hundred yards before he could stop.

Chester Man Works At Minerva

Smith's POW Companion Re-Enlists For Army Duty

The Tennessee soldier who spent two years in Viet Cong prison camps along with a Chester resident is back in the Army. Claude McClure of Chattanooga has re-enlisted with the rank of Sergeant E-5 and is now at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. He may be sent back to Viet Nam, the Army said.

Sgt. George Smith of Chester, who was incarcerated with McClure by the Communists, is now working at the TRW metals plant in Minerva and, as far as is known, has no intention of re-entering the service.

Smith's mother, Mrs. Lucille Potts, said Thursday afternoon her son and McClure had been in contact for a while, but not recently, so McClure's re-enlistment is news to him.

She said Smith recently bought a new car.

McClure and Smith were freed by the Viet Cong Nov. 27, 1965, the day of the protest march in Washington against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

The Army charged the pair with "preparing, furnishing and delivering to the Viet Cong certain documents, statements and writings inimical to the interest of the United States."

They subsequently were freed of the charges and released from the Army about three months ago.

U Thant Discusses Viet With Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP)—U.N. Secretary-General U Thant discussed Viet Nam at length today with the No. 1 man in the Soviet collective leadership, Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

An official announcement on the meeting in the Kremlin said only that they talked about international problems and United Nations activities. Qualified sources said "international problems" boiled down to the war in Viet Nam.

Thant has been stressing the Viet Nam problem in his meetings here this week with Soviet leaders.

Hospital Treats Yank Who Escaped Captors

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Navy pilot Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler, who escaped his North Vietnamese captors and fled over mountains and through jungles for 23 days, is being treated at Balboa Naval Hospital.

While confirming Dengler's presence, hospital sources declined to give his condition and said all other details must come from the Pentagon. Dengler was admitted Wednesday night.

Dengler, 28, Pacifica, Calif., was rescued by a helicopter in a North Vietnamese valley.

The damage estimate was made by Samuel H. Miller, vice president and treasurer of Forest City Enterprises, Inc. His company owned the contents of the building, which included power lawn mowers and wire fencing.

'Space Dust' Gathered By X15 Rocket Plane

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Gathering of micrometeorite "space dust" was the reason for the latest flight of the X15 rocket plane.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY
Everybody Runs For His Life

The excitement along TV row this time of year generally is confined to the coming new season's shows — how many will hit or how many will bomb out? It's discouraging to producers and stars of the old shows returning, because they must try to look fresh against this new competition so they can survive for another season.

For instance, what can they do with Ben Gazzara who is Paul Bryan, the man doomed to die of a fatal disease in 18 months — give or take a couple of months — on NBC's "Run for Your Life"? He's already lived up nine months of his time, if you don't count the reruns. And he hasn't even been back to his doctor for a checkup.

JO SWERLING JR., the show's producer, admits it's a problem. One writer came up with an idea which has Paul learning of a medic behind the Iron Curtain who may have a new mystery drug to cure whatever he has.

It was rejected for some reason. Probably someone at the studio or network didn't have the heart to hit the American Medical Association with such a low blow before it recovers from the shock of medicare.

"We are going to have a story which brings Paul back to his doctor in San Francisco, though," Swerling says. "In this one Paul gets circumscribed amnesia, but it only blocks out his memory from just before the time he is told of his fatal disease. The doctor's problem is whether or not to shock Paul back to reliving that again."

ASIDE FROM this experience Paul Bryan will continue to live life to the hilt while still waiting for those first spots before his eyes to signal the end.

If the new Jean Arthur Show, which CBS is putting in the new schedule against "Run for Your Life," happens to click, then Bryan may see those spots before the next season is over.

At the studio where "The Fugitive" is being girded for a fourth season, things must be even more tense. It's a kind of TV law now that to make it really big financially a series should remain on the air five years.

Can "The Fugitive" keep on running two more years? Most critics didn't see how he could run one year, not because David Janssen as the running Dr. Richard Kimble wasn't an engaging character, but why would people continue to watch after they'd become convinced he couldn't be caught?

OBVIOUSLY, we underrated the public's capacity for naivete and, as someone pointed out, the sloppy police work of Lt. Gerard Barry Morse, the detective on Dr. Kimble's nimble tail.

Anyway, next season Kimble

Rating The Scenery

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — A Vermont agricultural economist is working out a system for classifying, or rating, scenery according to its beauty. The specialist, Dr. Frederic Sargent, hopes to set up a standard of classification which will be objective and serve as a means for comparing scenery in a given region. His theory is that "like any other resource, scenery can be analyzed, classified, protected, and promoted."

Safest Place On Earth

Ohio Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson is full of good ideas for widening the margin of safety, but is ignoring the idea that would have the most effect.

That is to suspend the auto registration tags of drivers whose persistent lawbreaking forfeits their right to use public highways.

Among these would be chronic drunks, scofflaws driving with suspended licenses, drivers with 12 demerit points on their driver's licenses and accident-prone individuals whose records show they are not to be trusted around the lives and property of other highway users.

Ideally, it also would include drivers not financially responsible for the damage they may cause—no insurance, no auto license.

Ohio has learned to its dismay that suspending a driver's license has little effect. Scofflaws routinely drive with no licenses. Many Ohioans never have had a driver's license.

Why should they be given license tags for a car? Why should any Ohioan whose license has been suspended walk out of court, climb into a car and drive away? Why should chronic drunks be allowed to drive?

Highway Safety Director Nelson's ideas for highway safety are fine. But they are secondary to getting killers and accident causers off the highways by picking up their auto licenses.

And to make sure they stay on foot stiff penalties should be prescribed for auto owners who knowingly let them use a car.

Within a year, Ohio could be the safest place on earth for law-abiding motorists if it wanted to be.

Humanity Quotient

Ohio State University is starting an experimental program in education this fall that will be written up in all educational trade magazines.

OSU will expose a cross-section of its freshman class—between 200 and 300 students—to an approximation of the kind of togetherness they would have experienced if they had gone to one of the state's small voluntary colleges.

The purpose is to step up the "humanity quotient" and thereby soften the "culture shock" and sense of anonymity which many new students experience upon coming to a big university," explains Dr. John W. Gustad, associate dean of the college.

It's a fascinating thought.

Meanwhile, if small colleges would go whole-hog on data processing, anonymity and lecturing to student masses, with no direct contact between pupil and teacher, organized education would have reached the reductio ad absurdum of its tail-chasing cycle from small to king size, then back to small again.

Going Up—Going Down

The Johnson administration's quest for economic stability is having rough going. Higher interest rates, supposed to slow down inflation, are deflating the construction industry.

As always proves true, deflation may be good medicine for the other fellow but is a bitter pill for those who didn't prescribe it for themselves. The construction industry doesn't want deflation.

In actual truth, no one wants deflation. Even the politicians who talk about it as if they wanted it really want continuous inflation, in small enough doses to ward off deflation but never large enough to raise the bugaboo of runaway inflation.

An Emergency?

WASHINGTON

President Johnson said in his State of the Union message last January:

"I intend to ask the Congress to consider measures which, without improperly invading state and local authority, will enable us to deal with strikes which threaten irreparable damage to the national interest."

He hasn't done so yet, and amid increasing irritation caused by the 22-day-old strike against five major airlines, Johnson has been roundly criticized for not shifting the negotiations to the White House or proposing legislation to end the walkout.

Much of the criticism has come from Congress, but Thursday, after spending the better part of the day considering possible legislation of its own, the Senate Labor Committee pretty much tossed the problem back in the presidential lap.

The President's first move came about eight hours later. The White House announced that he was calling representatives of the airlines and the union to meet with him today. It declined to say whether Johnson would ask that the negotiations be shifted from the Labor Department to the White House.

PASSING UP a proposal by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., that Congress order the 35,000 striking mechanics and other ground service workers back to their jobs for six months while negotiations continue, the committee voted 11 to 5 for a mild back-to-work plan that would permit three 60-day cooling-off periods on Johnson's orders.

Outside the halls of Congress criticism of the President has been coupled with a suggestion that he may have been at least partly motivated by an unwillingness to bruise the feelings of organized labor in this congressional election year.

That the strike has cost the economy millions of dollars and frayed travelers' nerves is undeniable. But whether a national emergency exists is another matter.

"I don't know how you come to any other conclusion than that this is an emergency,"

Nothing Accidental

You always wonder how professional football players survive their rough-house game when they can't survive pre-season practice.

You wonder the same thing when the pro baseball players go into spring training and sprain their backs, spavin themselves and pull tendons out of shape.

Basketball players are harder. Their game is more strenuous than football and baseball, and they're in better condition. But there's more to all this than meets the cynical eye.

Getting ready to play is more hazardous than the actual contest. The hardest thing to do is make a good showing in a contest with an opponent still learning the trade.

These are the jokers whose knees have a way of caving in your ribs in the way calculated, whose spikes lacerate your shins in a mixup around second base in a baseball game, whose elbow clops you in the chops under the basket in a basketball game.

The boys who know their trade have learned how to make all moves in the way calculated to get the most results with the least injury. One of two things is true if they injure each other. They either meant to inflict bodily harm, or one of them made some inept move that put him at a disadvantage which resulted in injury. Practice makes perfect.

This is true of all contests involving professionals, including the related games of business, legislative debate, labor relations and so on.

No one is supposed to get hurt.

The economic elevator always moves up or down. It never gets stuck between floors. If it did, the effect would be the same as deflation; the economy would be stagnant.

The Johnson administration is trying all the standard moves to check inflation, except the one that would stop it cold—a drastic cutback in federal deficit spending. That would be so drastic it might bring down the economic elevator with a thud.

That would be deflation, the one thing government fears more than runaway inflation. Runaway deflation plagued the United States through the '30s, until World War II finally spurred inflation.

By Barry Schweid

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said at a news conference Tuesday. Morse also has said the strike has reached emergency proportions.

But not everyone agrees with them, particularly Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who told the committee Wednesday:

"We are confronted with a serious, substantial adverse impact on the national interest, an impact which, however, has not yet brought the country to what I suppose most of us would think of as an emergency state."

Wirtz went on to say that "any prolongation of the current strike may well bring the nation to that crisis, emergency stage at some point."

THE CENTRAL question, then, is whether there is, indeed, a national emergency. It is the administration's view that one has not yet set in, although Johnson agreed at a news conference last week that "the patience of the American people is being tried."

At the same news conference, the President said, "We have no legal remedies left to us in the government — we've done all we can do under the law."

He had used the 1926 Railway Labor Act, applied to airlines disputes by congressional amendment in 1936, to bar the strike for 60 days while a presidential panel investigated and made recommendations.

Then, Johnson had urged the parties to settle with the "framework" of the board's recommendations, but the machinists union snubbed its suggested 3.5 per cent increase in wage and fringe benefits.

Taft-Hartley law injunctions, so familiar in steel and dock strikes, were not available to him because they do not apply to the airlines and railroads.

For the moment, at least, the administration would like to place its reliance on the free collective bargaining system. For, as Wirtz told the committee: "I believe that there will be less labor disturbance in this country the smaller the number of cases which go to the White House."

By Truman Twill

Everybody is supposed to know the rules and abide them.

Injury ensues when someone gets sore, or makes an inept move that throws off an opponent's timing.

There is virtually no such thing as accidental injury in a real contest. A labor-management deadlock is the result of someone's awkwardness. Or, barring that, it is the result of someone's attempt to commit mayhem.

A legislative deadlock is evidence of bungling. A pileup in a harness race, a bearded batter, a congressional investigation—they're all proof that someone who didn't know what he was doing loused up the proposition.

Either that, or someone ran amuck.

Painting A Pretty Picture

Labor Aims For Defeat Of Reagan

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The state of the union which troubles the nation's labor leaders most is California.

Their private polls show that right now Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown is dead certain to lose to Ronald Reagan.

Down-beating their efforts to save the governor's chair for their good friend is a bitter split inside California's labor ranks.

This truly has been a searing battle between the North and the South.

So under the personal direction of AFL-CIO President George Meany, the movement has been gearing itself into action.

There have been closed door sessions in San Francisco and this capital.

A special top flight team of peacemakers flew to the Coast to force a truce so labor would unite behind Pat Brown.

No professional gets into a political fight without a money chest—and the labor men are pros.

They plan to raise at least $3 million inside labor alone for Brown's supreme conflict.

THEY PLAN TO SHUTTLE the peacemaking team between Washington, D.C., Los Angeles and San Francisco right through the campaign.

They plan in the next six weeks to unleash the most sweeping registration drive ever to roll over any state.

It will be directed by an expert—the "other Reuther," Roy.

They have set up machinery to reach into every congressional district.

All this is merely the result of two closed sessions—one in the Italian Room of the Saint Francis Hotel in San Francisco on July 14, and the other in the East room of the Mayflower here lasting three days beginning with Monday, July 18.

Ronnie Reagan, an old sports broadcaster, has faced many heavyweights in his time—but none like these.

None are more hard-hitting than the flying peacemakers.

This is a special committee personally selected by Meany—Paul Hall, leader of the Seafarers, a genius at a quasi-military type of political organization; Joe Keenan, a leader of the Electrical Brotherhood, laconic and dedicated, and the most universally loved man inside labor (so much so that both the late Jack Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson used him as an advance man); Roy Siemiller, president of the Machinists, whose ruggedness needs no other description, and young Paul Jennings, of the old Cio electrical workers.

With them, when they raced out to San Francisco, was the whirlwindish national labor political action director, Al Barkan, and Roy Reuther.

IT SHOULD BE NOTED that Roy Siemiller took time out of the airline strike negotiations to fly west.

This marks the importance of the mission to labor.

They flew out because the professional word was that Pat Brown would positively lose unless the California labor movement united and hurled its money and manpower divisions behind "the crusade."

The internecine war was flaring between the big Los Angeles labor council grouping and the Northern bloc.

It was brother against brother. It split even the big unions.

On July 14 they all came together—representatives of all districts.

The peacemakers finally left feeling their mission had been accomplished.

A few days later, the top 50 to 60 professional, full-time labor activists met in the Mayflower here.

This group is the steering committee of the Committee on Political Education of the national AFL-CIO.

Their big problem was California.

IN A SECRET SESSION, they polished the apparatus for the offensive to drive movie actor Ronnie Reagan from politics.

This machine will be topped by a statewide full time political action director.

Beneath him will be two assistants—one for the North and another for the South.

In each congressional district there will be at least one full time political action coordinator. They will direct all the committees and union political activities in each district.

By Aug. 8, when some 2,000 delegates meet in San Francisco, with the Sheraton-Palace Hotel as headquarters, both the apparatus and the unity should be shining through. The peacemakers plan to be on hand.

They'll be flying in and out right through election night.

They want to be certain that Ronnie Reagan will be a late, late show.

Annual Closing

By Richard Spong

The French Have Two Words For It

France's four auto makers shut off their assembly lines in August. Nobody tries to do any serious business. The Tour d' Argent, a world center for gourmets, stays open, and so do other regular stations on the tourist beat. But most small stores and almost all businesses observe what is called the fermeture annuelle (annual closing). For theaters it's the cloture annuelle.

Americans in Paris in August are astonished to see how much the French dress and act like Americans. The answer, of course, is that the people they're seeing aren't French -- just other Americans.

Especially on weekends. In addition to the 750,000 of the Paris French who manage to get out of town on Aug. 1 or thereabouts — some estimates run as high as 1½ million—those stuck in the city have discovered le weekend. Some 200,000 crash out by bus, train, and auto every Friday.

THE ABSENT PARISIANS are replaced by several hundred thousand tourists, mostly from the United States and West Germany. That puts a further strain on the already undermanned, and womanned, service trades. Some of the great restaurants, rather than fight a psychology that seems more instinctive than behavioral, simply put En Vacances signs on the doors and close for the whole month.

Though four weeks' holiday with pay is not legally compulsory in France, it already is the rule in industry. The well-to-do like to combine summer at the sea with a skiing holiday in winter, and they usually can afford the time.

According to the Wall Street Journal, the government-owned Renault auto factories in 1962 decided to shut down in July, in keeping with De Gaulle's attempt to widen the holiday season. But Renault, and other manufacturers who tried the same innovation, found that their cars couldn't even be hauled away to retailers in August. Renault, naturally, went back on the usual French schedule.

IN AUGUST the French, despite their traditional nonconformism, swarm out of Paris like lemmings. It doesn't matter that train reservations are difficult if not impossible to get, that roads are jammed, that the beaches and hotels are overflowing. They charge down the routes nationales as fast as they can, all the while calling each other assassins.

A lot of French, buoyed by prosperity, have taken to looking beyond the Riviera and the other beaches. The income from foreign tourists in France between 1962 and 1965 has been estimated at about $28 million below the expenses of French tourists abroad. The French mainly go to Italy, Spain, Portugal, the Benelux countries, and Britain, in that order.

The De Gaulle government has been trying with little avail to overcome the reputation of Paris for rudeness and price rapacity. Last year's program of checkques sourire, rewarding people who had been particularly amiable to foreign tourists, proved a dismal bust.

Perhaps what the nation needs is more publicity about the nudists on its Mediterranean beaches. Last year at about this time, four uniformed policemen near St. Tropez were overwhelmed by a mocking crowd of more than 300 stark-naked sunbathers. Whether the gendarmes were particularly unhappy at their fate was not reported.

Dog Days

This year's dog days have a sharper bite than usual.

Since July 3, the traditional start of the dog days, much of the United States has sweltered in continuous 90-plus and 100-degree temperatures.

Instead of worrying about mad dogs and other odd legendary dangers of the season, present-day Americans are concerned about power failures caused by overloading from air-conditioners.

Those without air-conditioning follow the advice given 2,800 years ago by the Greek poet Hesiod: "When Sirius parches head and knees, and the body is dried up by reason of the heat, then sit in the shade and drink."

Sirius is the name of the brightest visible star — 28 times brighter than the sun. Its clear blue-white light marks the constellation Canis Major, "the Greater Dog," so Sirius became known as the Dog Star.

The Greeks and Romans noted that Sirius rose with the sun at midsummer, the hottest time of the year. Thus the Romans called this period dies caniculares, or dog days.

The traditional season ran from July 5, 20 days before the simultaneous appearance of the sun and Sirius, to Aug. 11, 20 days after. Sirius is on a slightly different schedule now, but dog days still come in July and August.

Baltimore Police In Control

Gangs Of White Youths Roam In Negro Sections

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Gangs of white youths numbering from 50 to 100 ranged through Negro neighborhoods in search of victims Thursday night shortly after white supremacist speakers had whipped them into a frenzy at a rally.

Police had the situation under control in about two hours, but beefed-up patrols roamed through the area into the morning.

Baltimore has been labeled as the target city for 1966 by the Congress of Racial Equality, but CORE rallies have attracted only small audiences.

In comparison, Thursday night's rally by the National States Rights party at Patterson Park drew a crowd estimated at about 1,000. The group had been denied permission earlier to use the park, but speakers stood on top of a sound truck parked in the street as their audience spilled up the grassy slopes.

The sporadic trouble that plagued the southeast Baltimore area until late Thursday night began shortly after the rally sound trucks closed down about 8 p.m.

As the crowd broke up, a cluster of white youths surrounded Robert Kaufman, a self-proclaimed Socialist, and about a dozen of his companions. Police quickly formed a cordon around them and escorted them from the area, but eggs were tossed and before the group had gotten a block away, the crowd had grown larger, louder and more belligerent.

Riot police and officers with dogs were rushed to the scene. Plainclothesmen, who had been mingling with the crowd dressed in dirty T-shirts and jeans began pinning on badges.

Traffic

Elson Ave. and a City Transit System bus driven by Andrew H. Holtz, 55, of 201 Baum St. collided at 12:46 p.m. on Jennings Ave., about 200 feet east of St. Clair Ave.

Mrs. Salyers told Patrolman Paul A. Burson she was headed east on Jennings about 20 miles an hour and saw the bus, but thought it would pull over. Holtz reported both vehicles were too close to the center of the road. He said he attempted to pull over, but didn't make it.

A 1960 sedan operated by Earl Edwin Temple, 34, of 311 1st St., Wellsville, and a 1957 pickup truck operated by Wilbert F. Hobbs, 76, of Chester R.D. 1 collided at 10:31 a.m. on W. 8th St. at Gaston St.

Temple was driving east on W. 8th St. when the truck turned in front of him. Hobbs said he was making a turn onto Gaston and believed he had enough time to make it.

The right front fender and door of the Temple car and the right rear fender of the truck were damaged, police reported.

Two Cars Damaged In Local Vandalism

Two cases of vandalism were reported to city police Thursday.

Harry Nally of 501 Hill Blvd. told officers his 1964 model car was scratched on the front fender and door by a sharp instrument while parked on Thompson Ave. some time Wednesday between 8 and 10 p.m.

W. A. Blakeley of the National Auto Sales at 1443 Pennsylvania Ave. said a 1961 convertible parked on the lot was damaged some time Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

A door lock was damaged and the rear plastic window was cut. The vandals also stole a radio speaker from the car, he reported.

'Traditional Rain' Falls In Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (AP)—Waynesburg's residents didn't have to wait too long to see this community's 90-year "Rain Day" tradition ring true. Rain began falling in Waynesburg today at 3:08 a.m., according to patrolman Dennis Fox.

That made it the 84th time in 90 years it had rained here on this date.

Waynesburg's annual weather watch began in the late 1800's when a druggist, Allison Dailey, bet a farmer his hat it would rain on July 29. He made the bet every year until his death in 1945, when his son John, a local attorney, inherited the custom.

Road Action Approved At Highlandtown Lake

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday signed a resolution to cooperate with the Ohio director of highways in relocating two township roads to accommodate the construction of Highlandtown Lake.

Work is planned on portions of Township Roads 773 and 877 between state Route 39 and Township Road 887 (old Steubenville Rd.) for a distance of 1.6 miles.

"RELOCATION, reconstruction or alteration" of the roads will provide a 36-foot roadway with a 20-foot pavement. The improvement is to include a new bridge over Little Yellow Creek west of the lake basin.

The resolution gives the state the right to acquire needed property in the name of the county. Commissioners are to arrange for relocation of any interfering utilities and, once the project is completed, maintain the highway and place and maintain all traffic control devices.

The commissioners received a letter from Columbiana Mayor Dale G. Kampfer and village councilmen requesting that County Road 440 (E. Park Ave.) extension to Route 14 east of Columbiana be posted at 45 miles an hour.

The commissioners said they will advise Mayor Kampfer and Council that residents along the road should petition the county for the speed limit.

Emerson Snyder of Columbiana R. D. 2 was allowed $37.60 for 13 ducks, two geese and one hen destroyed by stray dogs.

COMMISSIONERS reimbursed eight service organizations for $400 in Memorial Day expenses. Statements of $50 each were submitted by the West Township Memorial Association, American Legion Post 56, A.M. Vets Post 68, VFW Post 892, DAV Chapter 122 and Sons of Union Veterans 43, all of Salem, and American Legion Post 290 and VFW Post 5532, both of Columbiana.

The commissioners accepted the lone bid for machines requested by the county treasurer, Pitney-Bowes, Inc., Akron, got the $12,651 contract for an integrated inserting machine equipped with mailing machine, table and power stacker at $9,826; a tickometer, $2,925, and endorsement dies, $100.

The Heer Printing Co. of Columbus, on a bid of $162, received the contract for a marriage record docket. The Columbus Blank Book Co. bid $168. Commissioners made a $300 slag grant to St. Clair Township trustees and allowed Al Rutecki, county Civil Defense director, $40 to rent CD exhibit space at the County Fair Aug. 24-28.

Utility Aide Presents Program For Kiwanis

Some of the industrial, cultural and natural attractions of Ohio were reviewed in a program presented during the meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Miss Ann Drumel, a representative of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. and affiliate gas firms in the Columbia Gas System, spoke on "Land of Enchantment," referring to the role natural gas plays throughout the state.

She was introduced by Harold Sneddon, East Liverpool manager of the gas firm. James Walker, president, was in charge.

miles from Haiphong, deep inside what pilots call the "missile envelope" around the vital Hanoi-Haiphong area.

But the number of SAM missiles sighted was surprisingly small.

There were no reported sightings of the Soviet-built MIGs which lately have shown increased willingness to do battle against the raiding Americans.

The targets included a rich haul of coastal craft, including an 80-foot barge and a 130-foot harbor tug which was blasted in coastal waters east of Haiphong. The "bomb damage reports" listed 13 petroleum supply dumps left blazing.

The U.S. command announced previously that an A4 Skyhawk and its pilot from the carrier Oriskany were missing on a raid Thursday near Vinh, 140 miles above the 17th Parallel. Another carrier-based Skyhawk went down near Vinh today, the spokesman said. No parachute was sighted and the pilot was listed as missing.

It was the 312th U.S. plane reported lost over North Viet Nam.

Hanoi Radio claimed three American planes were shot down near Vinh today and some pilots captured.

The record number of planes striking the North in an operation called Rolling Thunder took off from fields in South Viet Nam and Thailand and from three aircraft carriers in the Tonkin Gulf — the Ranger, Oriskany and Constellation.

Normally only two carriers operate against North Viet Nam, but three are sometimes on station when one is being relieved to give its crew a rest.

It was the third time Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots have flown more than 300 sorties — single-plane strikes — against the North in one day. The last time was two weeks ago, on July 15.

While the North was taking a record pounding, U.S. and South Vietnamese pilots flew 619 sorties in the South, 207 less than the record number flown Wednesday.

However, there were no B52 strikes, giving the high-altitude bombers from Guam their first day off in more than six weeks.

On the ground, American and South Vietnamese troops fought a handful of short, sharp actions in the past 24 hours which left 138 guerrilla or North Vietnamese soldiers dead. The heaviest Communist toll came in the dense jungles just south of the demilitarized zone, where five U.S. Marines on patrol spotted about 200 North Vietnamese. They signaled for artillery and air strikes and after the thunderous barrages counted 65 Communist dead.

The bombardment in the jungles hills just below the 17th Parallel demilitarized zone Thursday brought the reported enemy toll to 818 killed in 14 days of Operation Hastings. The spokesman said the Marines report some 830 more Communists probably killed.

The renewed action more than 400 miles north of Saigon fixed military attention again on the hunt by a task force of Marines and South Vietnamese troops for North Viet Nam's 324B Infantry Division just below the border. The estimated 8,000 to 10,000 Hanoi regulars began moving toward Laos or into the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone after a costly action Sunday.

The five Marines were ferried deep into the jungle by helicopter Wednesday to report on enemy troop movements. Their faces camouflaged with black and green paint, they hiked to a hillside overlooking a small clearing and began their obser-ations in an area swarming with North Vietnamese.

In hushed tones they radioed instructions for the first artillery strike and counted 15 dead. They wanted to move to safer ground, but headquarters told the patrol to stay put.

The order paid off. Within an hour the patrol spotted even more North Vietnamese. Air strikes took 50 more Communist soldiers.

Near Pleiku, in the central highlands, infantrymen of the U.S. 25th Division fought three skirmishes during the night against small probing units of North Vietnamese regulars. Thirteen North Vietnamese were killed, and the American troops suffered no casualties, a spokesman said.

The military spokesman lifted the security wraps on a big sweep in coastal Phu Yen Province by several thousand troops from the Korean 2nd Marine Brigade and the 1st Brigade of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division. The sweep started eight days ago, the spokesman said, and has killed 44 Communist soldiers at the cost of light allied casualties.

A-Device Exploded At Nevada Test Site

YUCCA FLAT, Nev. (AP) — A 20-kiloton nuclear device — part of the Plowshare program — has been exploded at the bottom of a 500-foot test shaft at the Nevada Test Site.

The explosion Thursday did not break ground, said a spokesman for the Atomic Energy Commission. The blast was the 28th test announced at the site this year and the third in the Plowshare program since January.

Wilson

program. However, many observers expected the prime minister to defend the measures already taken and to put the best possible light on Britain's economic future.

Those seeing a need for more stringent action by Wilson obviously felt that, after a postwar era in which the United States repeatedly has helped Britain out of monetary difficulties, this was a time for firmness in Washington.

If these people had their way, Britain would tighten its belt another notch or two and, more important, initiate broad reforms in an economic system that many here view as archaic and incapable of effective competition with more progressive nations.

Wilson arrived here late Thursday night from London and, upon alighting from his Royal Air Force jet, said "I expect to cover a good deal of ground" in discussions with Johnson.

It was billed as an informal visit, with a late morning conference, then a White House lunch, then a final round of talks prior to the prime minister's departure.

As part of the discussions about financial matter, there was certain to be talk about retrenchment of British military operations around the globe. A $200-million pullback is a Wilson goal.

The British, it was said, are most likely to make the heaviest withdrawals from among their 51,000 troops in West Germany. This fits in with American priorities, too, because the U.S. Army is there in greater strength than in some other areas of the globe where a British retrenchment would leave a larger void.

There seemed to be no disposition in Washington to quarrel with the economic necessity for Britain to pull in her horns militarily.

This was Wilson's fourth trip to the United States to meet with Johnson since the prime minister took office in October 1964. These sessions have been spaced roughly six months apart — prompting some to wonder if Johnson might reciprocate by joining Wilson on British soil, perhaps in the Caribbean, when winter makes its next assault on Washington.

850 Idled By Strike At H. K. Porter Mill

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — A strike at the H. K. Porter Co. steel mill here idled about 850 workers today.

The strike began shortly after midnight when a dispute arose over operations at the No. 1.

Plant Manager Joseph R. Girdler called the walkout an illegal work stoppage and said there would be no meetings to discuss the matter until the plant is back in operation.

James Bowen, union representative for Local 37 of the United Steelworkers of America, and a union committee urged the men to return to work, Girdler said.

He said only about 50 to 60 men reported for work at 7 a.m. this morning.

Judge Fines, Jails Driver

A Glenmoor man was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail for drunken driving by County Judge Herbert Arfman at East Palestine Thursday.

Ernest W. Freeman of Glenmoor was fined and jailed for driving while intoxicated and given a one-year license suspension. He also was fined $10 and costs for intoxication.

Elzie J. Horner of Oakmont, charged with giving false information about an accident, pleaded innocent, and a hearing was set for next Thursday.

Forrest B. Howell of Rogers R.D. 1, charged with driving while intoxicated and driving an unsafe vehicle, also pleaded innocent. His hearing was set for Thursday.

Others fined were Thomas Jenkins of Negley, $5 and costs for false registration; Norman J. Strawn of 440 James St., East Palestine, $5 and costs for driving left of center, and Charles Allen Pardell of 408 E. 3rd St., $5 and costs for an unsafe vehicle.

Forfeiting bonds were Rowland R. Riley of Rogers R.D. 1, $15, and Ronald Dotson of Lisbon R.D. 1, $10 for speeding.

Poor Pay, High Prices, Relief Check

3 Factors Cited As Cause Of Cleveland Race Riots

CLEVELAND (AP) — Poor wages, high prices and the relief check were three factors named by Negroes as contributing to the frustration which ignited last week's racial flare-up in the Hough area.

Despite the cry to "get white," one Negro woman said, "people don't mind the white owners as much as the high prices."

The woman, Mrs. Ceola King is a Hough area resident working with the economic opportunity program. She said food prices in the area are comparable with the rest of Cleveland, but welfare allotments for food are too low.

According to the county welfare board, the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and general relief allotments are $29 a month per person for food and clothing.

In discussing the prices Thursday, Mrs. King referred to figures from a study of one supermarket in Hough.

"Prices are lowest Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday," Mrs. King said. "They go up slightly Thursday, Friday and Saturday. They are usually highest around the tenth of the month. That's when the ADC checks are distributed."

Mrs. King said the smaller grocery stores in the area charge one or two cents more per item, but, unlike the supermarket surveyed, extend credit.

"These people couldn't eat without getting food on credit," she said. She said many of the smaller stores require a minimum purchase before they will cash relief checks. The supermarket does not require this.

Rent is high in the Hough area. Apartments cost around $60 a month, she said.

Earl L. Hooper, administrative assistant of Community Action for Youth, Inc., said store rent ranges from around $100 to $500.

"These people cannot live on their relief checks," said Ligon Buford, director of neighborhood small business services of the Cleveland Small Business Opportunity and Development Corp.

"If they don't do some finagling, they can't make it," he said. "But they seldom find a job that pays as much as their relief."

"If a man takes a job, what he makes is taken from his relief check," Mrs. King said. "If a woman gets a job, her salary comes out of her relief check and she still has to pay a baby sitter."

One man expressed the reason why many cannot leave the area. "It's the only place I know," he said.

After Week Of Violence

Chicago Teen Gang Tries To Retain Shaky Truce

CHICAGO (AP)—A teen-age gang has agreed to try and reinforce a shaky truce with a rival group after a week of violence in which two youths were killed and 12 persons wounded.

Juvenile officers and YMCA workers met Thursday night with 400 members of the East Side Disciples in a Roman Catholic church and urged the youths to try and curb the violence which police described as the worst in years.

The workers urged the Disciples to honor their truce with the Blackstone Rangers. They also urged the group to end terrorism against youths who are not gang members.

"Shootings," they said, "will do no one any good."

A spokesman at the church said the gang members listened attentively and agreed with the workers during the 45-minute meeting.

Leaders of the two gangs—which claim 2,000 members each—met with Police Supt. O.W. Wilson July 21. Wilson later told newsmen the gangs had declared a truce after seven years of fighting.

Irondale Group Plans Projects At Smart's Park

IRONDALE — Plans were outlined for improvements at Smart's Park when the Irondale Methodist Men met this week at the park.

An addition to the picnic pavilion, an adequate water supply near the pavilion and improvement of the entrance are included in the projects.

Donations will be requested from residents in letter solicitation and a social and bake sale will be held on Aug. 12 at the City Building to help raise funds for the work.

Families of members will be guests at the next meeting Aug. 15, which will feature a picnic at the park.

Quenton Henderson is president of the group.

The dragonfly belongs to the great insect order Odonata, whose 5,000 species are scattered the world over wherever there is fresh water.

Group Plans Special Help For Guilford

LISBON — Paul Flagan, Joe Fair, Al Yers and Robert Greenwald have been named a Guilford Lake Civic Association committee to work with Walter Burbick, Guilford Lake State Park manager, for improving the lake.

President Charles Gause appointed them during the quarterly meeting Thursday night at the Guilford Fire Station after Burbick requested such a group.

Burbick discussed lake regulations, the heavy use of the beach, picnic areas and campsites, and reported a number of arrests of boaters and swimmers.

He said blacktopping of 2.4 miles of lake roads will begin Monday and that refacing the earthen dam is scheduled for fall when the lake is lowered. He said wood guardposts along the dam road will be replaced with concrete posts.

Lester Jones, Carroll County game protector, discussed his work. Approximately 25 members attended.

The Association adopted a resolution calling on county commissioners to eliminate the word "retarded" from the County School for Retarded Children.

There were requests that more fish be stocked in the lake.

Efforts will be made to have a fish management specialist as speaker for the October meeting.

People In News

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Who said the National Guard doesn't have a heart.

John Teabutt, 21, and Frances Moffett were about to get married. They had picked Aug. 20 as the date and invited 400 guests.

Then came a letter ordering John to active duty for six months starting Aug. 15.

Consternation, confusion, calls to congressmen ensued. Finally there was this word from the guard: Relax! It's standard policy to grant a postponement for this kind of circumstance, they said. The trouble was attributed to a "breakdown in communications."

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Claude McClure, the soldier who spent two years in Viet Cong prison camps then criticized the U.S. presence in Southeast Asia, is back in the Army again.

He has re-enlisted with the rank of sergeant E-5 and is now at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo. He might be sent back to Viet Nam, the Army said.

McClure was cleared last April 15 of charges of furnishing the Viet Cong with documents inimical to U.S. interests and was released from the Army.

SHAFTSBURY, Vt. (AP) — A proposed four-lane highway is threatening the pastoral home of the late poet Robert Frost in Shaftsbury. Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall has asked the Vermont Highway Commission to seek an alternative route.

Frost died in 1963 at the age of 88.

keep wage hikes within bounds he considers noninflationary.

Chief airlines negotiator William J. Curtin insisted that any new contract must approximate the White House wage-increase yardstick of 3.2 per cent a year.

P. L. Siemiller, president of the striking AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists was adamant against any such wage limitation as long as the government put no lid on profits.

Siemiller said the strikers would accept nothing less than the union's demands for increases of 53 cents an hour over three years — amounting to 5 per cent annually — plus added pension and health benefits and a cost-of-living escalator clause.

The last reported offer of the five airlines — United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World — was 50 cents an hour over a 42-month contract, about a 3.8 per cent increase, with few added fringe benefits and no cost-of-living clause except a promise to consider it later if prices keep going up sharply.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS
Children Share Home Responsibilities

Some while ago I said in this column I wished mothers who feel they have been successful at teaching their children at sharing in household cares would write and tell me how they did it. Here is the reply of a mother from New Jersey:

"I have read your column concerning Dr. Garry Myers children doing chores around the house. We have three children — a boy, 12, and two girls, 10 and 5. Two years ago I came home after a month in the hospital and couldn't do any housework. The children pitched in and started to do the chores and have been doing them ever since."

"They make their bed and keep their room in order. The two older ones clear the table, dry dishes and sweep the floor every night. The homework is done after school so that they can watch TV or go out and play after supper. Each one gets an allowance every week."

"THEY HAVE never said anything about other children not doing chores — in fact, a friend who has three boys said her sons have started to help her because they saw my son helping me."

"We do many things together — swimming, boating and picnics in summer and sledding, skating and movies in winter. The children know when the chores are done we can spend more time playing."

From Missouri, a mother writes: "I don't agree with the woman that does everything herself. First of all if you don't teach the children to work when they are small they won't work when they are on their own. I am a mother of 13 children, nine boys and four girls. I taught them to even do woman's work because

County Visited By Tree Growers

LISBON — James Pendry of Lisbon and Walter Burbick of Guilford Lake were hosts to the Northeast Ohio Christmas Tree Growers Association Thursday night.

Twenty growers from six counties inspected Pendry's plantings on Route 517, east of Lisbon, and Burbick's tree fields along County Road 419, east of Elkton.

Gordon Anderson, manager of Creawood Farms at Kirtland, led the discussions. Anderson, like Pendry, is a past president of the state association.

Joe D. Pittman, Columbiana County extension agent for agriculture, told how the Cooperative Extension Service assists the growers.

The tourists saw examples of weed control, machinery used by the growers and a demonstration of pruning. They expressed interest in grading trees and suggested a fall meeting on that subject.

A RECEPTION for 60 followed in the social rooms, where the buffet table was decorated in a green and white color theme. The centerpiece was a three-tier cake, topped with a miniature bride couple.

Aides were Mrs. Alexana Erwin, Mrs. Patty McClaren and Miss Rose Needs.

The newlyweds are graduates of Alliance High School. The bride was graduated in 1964 from the Elkhart (Ind.) University of Medical and Dental Technology and is employed at the Molly Stark Sanitarium in Canton. Her husband is stationed with the Army at Ft. Lee, Va.

Red China Aide Seeking Asylum At U.S. Embassy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Red Chinese diplomat attached to Peking's Embassy in Damascus has defected and asked the U.S. Embassy there for political asylum, diplomatic sources in the Syrian capital reported today.

The U.S. ambassador in Damascus, Hugh Smythe, reached by telephone from Beirut, declined comment and said all information would have to come from Washington.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Beirut denied knowledge of the incident but sources in the embassies here and in Damascus indicated the reports were correct.

The conservative Beirut paper Al Hayat reported the defection in a brief story this morning. It said the Chinese diplomat, who was not identified, arrived at the U.S. Embassy in Damascus Wednesday and asked for political asylum.

There was no immediate comment from the Syrian government.

Water Calisthenics Help Tone Muscles

Grab a handful of water! When you exercise in the water you apply the principle of isometric contraction. That is, you increase the overload on the muscles through the resistance offered by the water.

Enthusiastic over the benefits of exercising in the water, readers have asked for a repeat column on water calisthenics. Fair enough. I called Gloria Frailey of the YWCA and asked her to add to our repertoire of "swim-nastics" as the "Y" terms them.

To tone flabby upper arms: Stand in water, about chest high, with arms down at sides, palms forward. As if grabbing a handful of water, contract arm muscles and p-u-s-h upwards, until you break surface of water with hands.

Turn palms down, p-u-s-h downwards against water and swing back as far as you can without bending. Shoot arms straight out in front again, then, with palms up, thumbs leading, swing sideways until arms are out at shoulder level. Repeat six times, later twelve or twenty.

THE FOLLOWING exercise is an all-over toning marvel: Position: Stand with back against pool sides, arms outstretched with palms resting on gutter ledge. Lift both legs straight out in front, and hold just below surface.

Action: Separate legs, stretching sideways as far as comfortable, against resistance of water. Then bring legs together. Repeat six times. From the raised legs position (legs extended straight out in front), hold legs together and s-w-i-n-g sideways clear around until toes touch outstretched hands on gutter ledge. That's tough, but toning.

Swing back to center and around to the other side. This action tones inner and outer thigh muscles, flattens abdomen and slims waist.

The breast stroke is the best ever for toning chest, arms and shoulder muscles. Even if you do not swim, you can practice the breast stroke in the water. Stand in water chest deep, stretch arms straight out in front of chest, then separating arms, circle around to sides, swing down through the water and up to starting position, always keeping arms in water.

IF YOU SWIM, do the breast stroke for 40 feet at each swim session. Whew! It's tough exercise, but what a toner. Recall what it did for Great Grandma's curves.

Gloria Frailey puts swimmers and non-swimmers through "swim-nastics" for fast toning. She reports that non-swimmers lose their fear of the water. Then, relaxed, and in perfect body alignment, swimming is a natural.

Out Of The Air

By RICHARD K. DOAN

Challenge To Carson

Johnny Carson's halcyon days as the unchallenged star of late-evening network entertainment may be headed for the twilight zone.

It now appears that both ABC and CBS might be pitting shows against NBC's "Tonight" by the fall of next year. Both networks, at least, are seriously considering the move. ABC is dicker with Joeey Bishop to star in such a series.

announced regarding Moore's show cast and format.

THE STAR has returned in recent days from a three-week holiday in Europe with his family.

Weaver is telling inquirers that he and Moore are not yet quite ready to talk for publication about the show. CBS' publicists fretfully are standing by.

Obviously no running start is being made in the way of taping shows in advance.

Whatever the indecision or trouble, it's being well guarded.

LEAVE IT TO ABC to innovate with a twist.

The network officially has confirmed reports of plans to advance the date of some of its fall premieres to the week immediately following Labor Day.

The objective, of course, is to get the drop on the rival chains, which have booked their premieres for the week of Sept. 12, as had ABC.

The twist is in the designation ABC has given its head-start openings: "Advance premieres." ABC-TV boss Tom Moore calls them.

ABC, he says with straight face, simply is going to "sneak" some of its new programs as well as new episodes of some of its returning series, "to afford viewers the widest possible opportunity to see them."

WHAT HE MEANS is that ABC expects that, with reruns being featured on CBS and NBC, virtually everybody will tune to ABC to see the brand-new shows.

There'll be about as much "sneak" to them as there is to those misnamed "sneak previews." NBC trumpets every now and then.

JACK BENNY fans apparently will catch only one hour-long glimpse of him on the home screen next season.

NBC reported the veteran comedian will tape a special in Burbank next mid-October for airing Thursday night, Dec. 1. It will be his only appearance on the NBC schedule other than possibly in guest shots.

Benny is going on a two-month personal appearance tour with a variety show opening Sunday in Indianapolis.

His only NBC special last season ran Nov. 3.

TV CIRCLES are getting more and more curious at the sustained silence prevailing at CBS regarding Garry Moore's new Sunday night show.

It has the crucial assignment of bucking NBC's ratings giant, "Bonanza." It's Garry Moore's big comeback effort. The show is being generalissimoed by Pat Weaver, one-time NBC board chairman and president, famed as a TV innovator.

But the summer is wearing on; September premieres are less than two months away, and almost nothing has been an-

Cook Sends Letter To Gosney

Ohio Defends Its Efforts To Combat Teen Drinking

The Rhodes administration's efforts to combat teen-age drinking in the state of Ohio were defended today by Donald D. Cook, director of the Department of Liquor Control, in a letter replying to recent allegations by Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, Columbiana County Democratic chairman.

Pointing out that the letter to Gosney had been motivated by "several recent articles appearing in the press of Columbiana County," Cook reviewed various steps that have been taken by the administration to alleviate the problem.

AMONG statistics cited were these: There were 1966 citations issued permietholders involving minor violations during the 44 1/2-month period from 1963-1966 under the present administration, compared with 1,601 during a 47 1/2-month period under the previous administration.

There were 2,685 persons — adults and minors — arrested for violation of the Liquor Control Act pertaining to minors during the same period of the present administration, compared with 1,849 under the previous administration.

In addition to arrest charges and charges lodged against permietholders for sales to minors, three and one-half years of this administration have seen 3,601 total charges for minor violations, lodged against liquor permietholders. This can be compared with 2,388 charges of minor violations placed against permietholders during the previous administration.

Cook, expressing concern over Gosney's "allegations that the Ohio Department of Liquor Control is lax in enforcement of laws with reference to sales to minors," pointed out in his letter that "the department has had, for some time, a program to combat teen-age drinking and from inquiries we have had from numerous other states and foreign countries for advice, guidance and information as to our program and how they may duplicate same in their states and countries, we feel we are in the lead in combating this most serious problem." The letter continues:

"FOR YOUR information, Ohio's program was started in February of 1963, on orders from Gov. Rhodes. Recognizing it as 'one of the most critical social problems of youth today,' the governor instructed me, as director of the department, to formulate a program of strict enforcement and education to combat illegal drinking by teenagers in the state.

"Furthermore, we have by close cooperation with local enforcement agencies received great assistance in this program and have encouraged better use of approximately $10 million of permit fee money that was refunded to local cities and townships, to be used for liquor law enforcement on the local level.

"In September 1964, Gov. Rhodes was instrumental in appointing a committee to study teen-age drinking violations. Enclosed with this letter you will find a report entitled, 'Teen-age Drinking — Meeting the Problem in Ohio,' which is a record of this committee's work. Since publishing this report, the committee has met with religious and liquor industry leaders in further attempting to work out areas of cooperation in meeting this problem. A highly successful conference and workshop sponsored by this department in conjunction with the University of Toledo was held in Toledo this past spring. Selected teen-agers from this committee and from various counties sponsored by civic organizations, were sent to this conference.

"WE HAVE issued in the past several years, two pamphlets on teen-age drinking which have been widely distributed through schools, law enforcement agencies, probate courts and other interested civic organizations. A total of 265,000 copies of this pamphlet was distributed, 1,800 went to high schools in Columbiana County. On the second edition, approximately 400,000 already have been distributed, with 1,400 going to high schools in Columbiana County.

"For your further information, I am enclosing a sample copy of the pamphlets which have been issued by this department and we would be pleased if, in your desire to assist in this program, you would care to receive some of this literature to distribute through your organization.

"In closing, I wish to advise that, after reading this letter, any assistance you care to give this department in connection with this program, will be most appreciated. I would also be happy to meet with you at any time at your convenience, to receive any suggestions from you as to how the program may be improved."

Social Security Not Adequate

Kennedy Bill Proposes Increase In Old Age Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, saying Social Security no longer is adequate as the primary source of support for millions of older Americans, has introduced a bill to increase benefits.

The New York Democrat said Thursday an increased payroll tax and "a limited use of general revenue financing" could pay for the increase that would boost benefits by an average of 50 per cent by 1968.

Kennedy said the bill would ensure "a generally adequate level of benefits to all those who subsist on Social Security."

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say Red China probably will not enter the Viet Nam war because Peking understands U.S. policy is not aimed at the overthrow of the North Vietnamese government.

The U.S. officials told a group of city managers visiting the State Department Thursday that Red China has indicated it is much more likely to enter the conflict if the Hanoi regime is destroyed.

The officials also said neither Red China nor the Soviet Union has increased their Viet Nam involvement much since U.S. air strikes on oil storage facilities near Hanoi and Haiphong began a month ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved legislation that would halt, at least temporarily, plans to extend the west front of the Capitol.

The measure, passed by a voice vote, prohibits using any funds pending an independent study of the cost of shoring-up and restoring the present structure without changing its general appearance.

A five-member commission, including House Speaker John W. McCormack, has approved the extension project estimated to cost $34 million. It remains to be seen whether the House will accept the Senate action.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved a $10-billion authorization to continue the nation's highway programs for the 1968-69 fiscal year, but the bill's floor manager said increasing costs will require more funds in the immediate future to keep the programs on schedule.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., said Thursday new efforts must be made to meet the mounting costs. At the same time, the Bureau of Public Roads announced that highway construction costs rose 4.3 per cent during the April-June quarter of this year, boosting the construction index to 113.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

Capital Footnotes

By The Associated Press

The federal government has launched a program to provide medical and dental care for needy children with an initial grant under the medicare plan of nearly $15 million.

The Treasury Department says, despite record and near record production of half dollars, the supply probably will not be large enough to permit normal circulation until early next year.

Employees Voted Increase In Pay At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — City council passed by a 6-1 vote Thursday night an emergency salary ordinance giving 1,350 city employees an across-the-board 10 per cent wage increase.

The wage increase followed a two-day strike by almost 400 city employees which tied up vital city services.

Total cost of the wage-increase package will be about $870,000 over the next 17 months.

About 900 employees, including police and firemen, are paid out of the city's general fund. Their increases would total about $600,000. The remaining $270,000 for some 450 additional employees will come from water bill receipts, and gasoline, license plate and sewage taxes.

Employees will get an immediate 5 per cent pay increase Aug. 1 and an additional 5 per cent raise next Jan. 1.

Agreement on the pay increase came early Thursday morning in city council chambers following a marathon bargaining session between city officials and representatives of the striking sanitation, street and water department employees.

Wellsville Post Will Hold Picnic

Pvt. Tommy Mackall Post 5647, Veterans of Foreign Wars of Wellsville will hold its annual family picnic Sunday at Prokop Park, near Williamsport.

Games will be featured for various age groups, with prizes to be awarded the winners. A softball game between the married and single men will highlight the afternoon. Women are to bring coverdishes.

The committee in charge includes Fred Payne, commander, John Snyder, Dohrmann, Rosenlieb, Paul Russell and Keith Hamilton. Further information may be obtained by calling the post home.

Driver Forfeits Bond In Charge At Lisbon

LISBON — John R. Burkey, 41, of North Lima R. D. 1, forfeited a $15 bond in mayor's court Thursday after police charged him with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Police Capt. John Barner said Burkey's truck struck the left rear fender of a parked 1959 sedan on S. Market St. near the Washington St. intersection. The car, owned by Doris E. Hole of Rogers R. D. 1, was legally parked, police said. Burkey was turning from Washington north onto Market.

Voice In Sub

Women May Warn On Sea Perils

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy may soon send a woman to sea in its submarines — electronically, that is.

"Although submarine wives were not consulted, this female presence aboard submarines should not be resented," the Navy reported with a straight face today.

After all, she is only a recording designed to sound words of warning automatically when danger threatens seamen.

The woman's voice — "sultry" is the way the Navy described it — may replace such submarine alarms as blinking red lights, honks, buzzes and squawks.

These signals, far less appealing to the masculine senses, alert a submarine operator to take action in case of high-pressure seawater flooding, fire or serious power failure.

"A real attention-getter is needed for extremely dangerous situations," the Navy said.

Then it said: "In view of the well-established responsiveness of Navy men to the female voice, among other things, the new system is expected to be highly successful."

What will the voice say?

"Fire! Fire! There is a fire in the crew's mess," and "Flooding! Flooding! There is serious flooding in the after steering room," were examples supplied by the Navy.

The Navy did not explain how a voice can be "sultry" and still manage to impart to the male listener an urgency to carry out his duties.

The Navy did disclose the voice will be that of Joan Rurie, employed by the Nontronics Division of Northrop Corp., Palos Verdes, Calif., developer of the vocal warning system.

She was described as a professional recorder for Nontronics as well as a part-time singer and former actress.

With gentlemanly restraint, the Navy withheld her age.

The prerecorded warning speech will be checked out in the near future aboard an operational sub. Once satisfactorily evaluated, the voice will be installed aboard all of the Navy's 150 operational subs, a spokesman said.

Ike's Condition 'Not Alarming,' Physician Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attending physician says from all indications there is "nothing drastic or alarming" about the condition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who is back in Walter Reed Army Hospital for what is described as a routine checkup.

The doctor said the general of the Army entered the hospital last week on a scheduled visit, returned to his Gettysburg, Pa., home for the weekend, then re-entered the hospital Monday.

After his presence became known publicly Thursday, a hospital spokesman said the former president is there for "routine follow-up studies regarding his arthritis and heart condition."

Eisenhower suffered heart attacks in 1955 and last fall and was hospitalized three months ago for treatment of osteoarthritis.

The physician indicated no emergency was involved in Eisenhower's hospitalization. He told a reporter that as far as symptomology—outward signs—are concerned, there has been no appreciable change in Eisenhower's general condition since he was released from the hospital three months ago.

In fact, the doctor reported marked improvement in Eisenhower's arthritic condition.

He said routine tests — "electrocardiograph, X-rays and certain blood tests" — are being conducted to determine whether there has been significant change in the status of his heart condition.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Boy-oh-boy, did I ever see glimpses of myself in your column a few weeks ago!!!

I turned the clock back about 40 years, but there I was—just like the homely little girl whose father carried a picture in his wallet of a beautiful older sister. Her picture was left in the bureau drawer.

I'm 55 years old, but some of those memories still hurt. My older sister was the star and I was nothing. She got all the praise and I got all the criticism. When "The Beauty" was graduated from the eighth grade the whole family was there. When I was graduated from the eighth grade nobody showed up. Life plays funny tricks. When it came time for marriage, my sister made a very poor selection. My marriage was one of the best.

To this day mother resents the fact that I have a wonderful husband, a lovely home, fine children and a good life. My sister's looks are gone, her husband isn't much good and her life is empty. Mother says I was lucky and my sister was unlucky. I say somebody up there decided to even the score — ORLANDO.

Dear Orlando: I like your theory best.

No Vacation

Dear Ann: Our son, Jed, is 19, a college sophomore and he is enrolled for summer courses. The college is about 100 miles from here. He comes home weekends. Jed has been dating a high school girl who lives in the college town.

The girl has a car. She drives Jed home almost every weekend and moves right into our guest room. We hear them roaming around all hours of the night, which I think is bad for the younger children.

Our family is taking a trip in August and Jed wants to include the girl. I am against it. What kind of parents must she have, anyway?—R.R.R.

Dear R.R.R.: The girl's parents must have rocks in their heads, but you've got a few boulders, too, lady. Obviously you can't police your son when he's away at school — and you shouldn't try. But permitting the girl to move in for weekends offers unspoken approval of this much — too — chummy relationship. Say "NO" to the vacation deal.

Problem Parents

Dear Ann: My problem is my parents. I am a 15-year-old girl. They make me kiss them good night every night. Then my mom blesses me and says something in her native tongue.

After that she makes me tell her that I love her. I think this is stupid. Besides, I'm too old for that junk. I've asked mom why she does this and she says it's good for people to tell each other they love one another. It doesn't really make me feel closer to her. In fact it makes me dislike her.

What's your opinion of all this garbage?—ANTIMUSHER.

Dear Anti: I feel sorry for your mother. She must be desperately unfulfilled.

Maybe you think a good night kiss and being blessed by your mother is "garbage", but one day you'll wish you could turn the clock back and do a few things differently. But it will be too late.

To Reddy Freddy: I hope you are "reddy" for plenty of trouble. This girl is under age no matter what state you live in. Her father can throw the book at you—and I hope he does.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

House Tackles Amendments

Less-Controversial Parts Of Rights Measure Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House tackles one of the less-controversial sections of the 1966 civil rights bill today, leaving the big battle over open housing until next week.

Four days of talking about the bill ended Thursday and the time for action on amendments now has arrived. Dozens are expected and it could take all of next week to bring the bill to a final vote.

The various sections of the bill will be considered in order, leaving housing — Title IV — to simmer in the background while the earlier ones are taken up.

On tap today were amendments to a section aimed at assuring that federal jurors are drawn from a full cross-section of the community. It has probably the broadest support of any title in the bill.

It also has opponents, however, including some federal judges who have made their views known to House members. They feel Congress is encroaching on their territory in writing jury selection legislation.

The bill would provide a uniform system for all judicial districts in which prospective jurors are drawn from a list of registered voters.

The bill also would provide that a person cannot be denied the right to serve on a federal jury because of his economic status, thereby ending so-called

"blue ribbon" juries that function in some areas.

The qualifications for jurors would be the same as under present law.

The end of formal debate Thursday left the situation regarding the housing provision as confused as when it began. Neither the Democratic nor Republican leaders have been able to pin down enough of their members to determine how a vote would go.

The bill's chief backers feel adoption of an amendment that would clearly exempt individual homeowners — and their real estate agents — from any ban on discrimination in housing is necessary if it is to win House approval.

Civil rights leaders are urging members to defeat any such amendments. They claim there is enough support for the proposal as it now stands to make any further concession unnecessary.

Two More Ohio Men Killed In Viet Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Pfc. Ronald P. Coates of Lebanon, Ohio, and David L. Gamble of Rome, Ohio, were reported by the Defense Department Thursday as killed in Viet Nam combat.

Coates was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Coates, Gamble the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Bodner.

Wheeling Steel's Injunction Bid Denied By Judge

WHEELING (AP) — A Wheeling Steel Corp. request for an injunction to prevent picketing at its new fabricating plant here was denied Thursday by Judge James G. McClure.

He said that Wheeling Steel had failed to prove that the picketing was illegal. Judge McClure explained that state law limits jurisdiction in labor disputes.

An attorney indicated that Wheeling Steel would comment on the ruling later. The company already declared that if the United Steelworkers Union did not withdraw the pickets a government contract would be in jeopardy.

The pickets have prevented remodeling at the Wheeling Factory which is necessary before Wheeling Steel can begin work on some 24,000 steel containers for the government.

The first shipment of 5,000 containers is due Oct. 1. Wheeling Steel was to have 500 employees at work on the new contract by Sept. 1.

The USW claims that the company is planning to use non-union workers to fill the order then close the plant. The contract deadline is Jan. 10.

State Releases $984,900 For School Bus Purchases

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Seventy-eight buses to take pupils to parochial and private schools are among the 211 school buses for which the state's share of the cost was released Thursday.

The initial such action under the "fair bus" law passed by the last General Assembly, the State Controlling Board explained that it is required under that legislation to repay nonpublic schools fully for bus purchases. The board released $984,900 all told for the first buses bought by districts under the new central pricing system, under which the state subsidizes an average of 60 per cent of the cost.

The board approved use of $2,660,000 for the Blue Ash Branch of the University of Cincinnati. A total of $340,000 had already been approved to buy a 122-acre site for the school. Union, Monroe, Vinton, Madison and Warren counties received $100,000 each for airport runway construction and equipment.

The board released $100,000 to finance a long range development program for the state library and libraries throughout Ohio.

Other expenditures approved included:

$111,000 for a Highway Patrol station at Eaton, Preble County.

$110,000 for a patrol station at Lebanon, Warren County.

$30,000 to buy 55 acres for a 70-acre golf course and picnic area at Miami University in Oxford. The state university's golf course was taken as a construction site for a new assembly hall.

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

Allen Riding Bench . . .

Bernie Allen isn't playing much these days for the Minnesota Twins and we understand that Bernie, along with some other members of the Twins apparently are in manager Sam Mele's doghouse.

Things aren't so rosy up Minnesota way. As one Minneapolis writer put it, Mele isn't "communicating" with all members of the Twins.

If any trade winds blow, it has been reported that the New York Yankees would be interested in Allen, since Bobby Richardson is planning to retire after this season, leaving a gap at second base.

While the East Liverpool lad has been riding the bench lately, he was called upon Wednesday night at Yankee Stadium and delivered a pinch hit home run which was in vain as the Twins lost. It was his third roundtripper of the season.

Quetot Interests Pirates . . .

BEAVER LOCAL'S Frank Quetot, who operated between the pitcher's mound and first base for the Beavers, impressed Pittsburgh Pirate officials recently at a tryout camp at Columbus.

From more than 200 who attended the camp, the Pirates cut the list to 24 and Quetot was among those the Buc scouts kept.

The Pirates told Quetot they would contact him soon and seemed to be interested in him as a first baseman.

Niles Gridders On Road? . . .

THE 1966 Niles High School football team will travel a distance of about two miles this coming season.

Niles has nine home games with the only away contest with next door neighbor Warren Harding which is practically across the street from Niles.

A FORMER Wellsville resident who hadn't played golf for several years fired a hole-in-One last week while playing at Norfolk, Va.

Lt. Comdr. William A. Reese, who is assigned to the Atlantic Intelligence Center at Norfolk, fired an ace and an eagle two while compiling a 42-42-84 total. His ace came on a 122-yard hole using an eight-iron.

Paul Vogel of Wellsville visited the Reeses last week in Virginia.

FOR THE district wrestling fans, Bruno Samartino, the world heavyweight wrestling champ, will be featured in a show Aug. 6 at Memorial Auditorium.

Paul Zehnder, chairman of the show, said Samartino will be matched against "The Beast." Other performers on the card will be announced later, Zehnder said. The show is sponsored by the Jaycees.

THE MONTH of August, of course, will be a big one for the Pittsburgh Pirates, with the Bucs facing all National League teams with the exception of the Giants and Braves.

A breakdown shows six games with New York and Cincinnati, five with Los Angeles, four each with Philadelphia and St. Louis, three with Chicago and two with Houston during the month.

GOOD LUCK to the National League All-Stars when they open Regional tournament play at Canton Monday.

The fact that two East Liverpool teams played for the District Little League championship measures the success of the program in the city. All the officials, managers, coaches and players should be quite proud of their achievements this season.

Reds, Cards Continue Hot Pace In NL

Cepeda's Bat Ringing Out .337 Average

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati's third-string catcher has switched from morale-booster to fence-buster and the Reds are turning the corner in the National League scramble.

Jim Coker, a forgotten man in Cincinnati for two years, belted a grand-slam homer Thursday night as the Reds continued their upswing with a 7-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds have won eight of their last 10 games and 10 of 16 since Dave Bristol replaced Don Heffner as manager two weeks ago after an 11-game losing streak toppled them into eighth place.

Coker, the club's No. 1 cheerleader and No. 3 receiver — behind John Edwards and Don Pavletich — since 1964, has caught in 10 games during the Reds' revival and has homered in two of the last three. He had only one home run before connecting Tuesday night against the Cubs and had hit just three for the Reds prior to this season.

"It's a good feeling when you come to the ball park knowing you have a chance to play," said the 29-year-old catcher, who appeared in 11 games last season and 24 the previous year.

Despite the inactivity, Coker never lost his enthusiasm — or sense of humor. "Coker keeps everybody loose," says Bristol. "He says the right thing at the right time."

While Coker's second career grand slam powered the Reds past the Cubs, the streaking St. Louis Cardinals, led by hot-hitting Orlando Cepeda, outscored Atlanta 7-5 in the only NL games scheduled. The victory was St. Louis' fourth straight and 10th in 11 games.

Chicago edged Detroit 2-1 in the only American League action. Kansas City and Boston were rained out.

Coker's bases-loaded blast off Curt Simmons capped a five-run explosion in the first inning. The Reds added two runs in the third when Tommy Helms doubled for his seventh consecutive hit and Deron Johnson cracked his 12th homer.

Cepeda, the league's No. 2 hitter, lifted his batting average to .337 and extended his hitting streak to 12 games with a double and homer as the Cardinals climbed into fourth place, seven games off the pace.

The St. Louis first baseman triggered a five-run rally in the second inning with his 17th homer, helping Bob Gibson pick up his 13th victory. Gibson left in the eighth with a sore elbow after yielding five hits and the Braves closed the gap with three runs in the inning.

Two-run triples by Dal Maxvill and Lou Brock capped the Cardinals' second-inning burst.

Don Buford doubled across the tie-breaking run for Chicago in the sixth inning against Tiger ace Denny McLain, who took his fourth straight defeat since the All-Star game. Jack Lamabe, with late-inning relief help from Bob Locker, registered his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Schlee Putts To Front At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—John Schlee, prize pupil of the PGA's 10-day rookie school this spring at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., carried a two-stroke lead into today's second round of the $93,000 Festival Open Golf Tournament.

The slim 27-year-old former Memphis State athlete used only 26 putts in shooting a six-under-par 66 over the new 7,179-yard Speedway course Thursday. Fairways are so far from perfection that the pros were allowed to improve lies without penalty.

Johnny Pott and Dale Douglass were in with 68 when Schlee birdied the last two holes to go in front. He had started his collection of nine birdies by chipping in from 50 feet on the first hole.

Bruce Crampton of Australia who won last year's Festival Tourney when it had to be played on Indianapolis Green-tree course because Speedway wasn't finished, tied R. H. Sikes and Glenn Teal for fourth position with a 69.

Other first-round scores on the par-72 course included 70s by Lionel Hebert and Ken Towns.

The deciding game will be played today at 6 p. m. at La-Croft Field.

Potters outhit T. S. & T. 5-3 but finished on the short end of the score. Robin Reed was the winning pitcher. Tim Fenton was the losing pitcher but combined with Dan Parsons for 12 strikeouts.

Wings Hurler Flips First 11 No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

The Rochester Red Wings' Dave Vineyard has pitched the first nine-inning no-hitter of the International League season.

Vineyard did it Thursday night in a 1-0 victory over the Toledo Mud Hens in the second game of a twin bill. The Wings also won the first game, 3-2.

Toledo's Stan Bahnsen pitched the only other no-hitter of the season, in a seven-inning game with Richmond July 17.

Vineyard, a 6-foot-3, 205-pound, right-hander, struck out four and walked six on the way to his win. He now has a 6-6 season record.

Rochester scored its winning run in the eighth with one out on a bunt, a single and a force out.

John Scruggs made a one-handed running catch in deep center with two out and two out in the ninth to save Vineyard's no-hitter.

Dick Hughes was the losing pitcher, giving up eight hits but striking out 12 and walking only one.

Other action saw Buffalo edge Jacksonville 4-3 in 12 innings. Toronto took Richmond, 2-1 in 11 innings and Columbus beat Syracuse 2-1.

Rochester's double victory narrowed the league-leading Columbus Jets' edge to one game.

George Spriggs hit an eighth-inning solo home run for Columbus that broke up a pitching duel between the Jets' Jim Shellenback and Art Todtenhausen of Syracuse and won the game.

Atlanta Followers Wait First Exhibition Contest

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The state of Georgia brings in the high-priced talent today to exhort the Atlanta Falcons on to victory in the new club's first game, an exhibition contest against the Philadelphia Eagles Monday.

No less a figure than Gov. Carl E. Sanders plans to visit the Falcons' training camp at Black Mountain, N.C., have dinner with the team and watch practice Saturday.

Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker emphasized kickoffs and punt returns Thursday during the club's workouts and said he might use rookie flanker John Pincavage, who arrived in camp Thursday from the Detroit Lions, as a kick-return specialist against the Eagles.

Philadelphia, meanwhile, suspended its morning drills because Coach Joe Kuharich is afraid of overworking his players.

"We are in a point of training now where you get that element of fatigue," Kuharich said.

Washington Redskins Coach Otto Graham got his first look at halfback Charley Taylor Thursday and liked what he saw.

"He's just a great runner," Graham said of the 1964 Rookie of the Year. "If I could use him on every play, a lot of my worries would be over."

There was little progress toward resolving any of the salary disputes plaguing several teams in both the National and American Leagues.

John Brodie's holdout against San Francisco continued and Coach Jack Christiansen plans to use George Mira in the 49ers' exhibition opener Aug. 7.

Bruce Mahar, Detroit Lions safetyman, became the fifth player on the club to walk out of the team's training camp. He and the Lions are reportedly $1,500 apart in contract negotiations.

Mahar joins flanker Pat Stud still in the walkout department. The others who left camp earlier, John Gordy, Darris McCord and Roger Brown, have rejoined the club. Another holdout, Ted Karras, is home in Chicago.

Phipps' Horses Seeking 3 More Stakes Saturday

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Trainer Eddie Nely, winner of 27 stakes with the Phipps family's horses this year, puts his divide and conquer program into action Saturday on three fronts.

The 45-year-old trainer has won 67 races, 66 of them this year, since taking charge of the Phipps thoroughbreds. He will send out Ogden Phipps' 2-year-old filly Intriguing in the $100,000-added Sorority at Monmouth Park. Discipline from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley Stable in the $100,000-added Delaware Handicap at Delaware Park and Ogden Mills Phipps' Time Tested in the $50,000-added Arlington Cap at Arlington Park.

With the Sorority and Delaware Handicap styled for fillies and mares, members of thoroughbred racing's distaff divisions will race for the richest purses. Eleven older fillies and mares are slated for the Delaware Park feature and seven 2-year-old misses for the rich Monmouth Park headliner.

With 11 starters, the Delaware Handicap at 1¼ miles will be worth $120,470, with $78,305 to the winner. Old Hat, the 1964 winner and last year's champion mare, is eligible but a doubtful starter.

A clock installed on London's Tower Bridge by Henry VIII's order, 425 years ago, is still telling time.

Bret Hanover Eyes All-Time Money Record

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—Bret Hanover, winner of 54 of 58 starts in less than three years of racing, took dead aim today on Su Mac Lad's world money-winning record for harness horses.

The 4-year-old from the barns of Richard Downing of Shaker Heights, Ohio, became the leading money-winning pacer Thursday night when he picked up $55,000 in the $100,000 Empire Pace at Yonkers Raceway to boost his bank account to $760,352.

Su Mac Lad, the retired trotter, holds the harness racing record of $885,095 and if Bret is to pass him he must do it this year since he'll go into stud service in 1967.

Pacing the 1¼ miles in 2:33.25 with the last half in 58.45 seconds and the final quarter in 28.35, Bret finished three lengths in front of Gee Lee Hanover with Tuxedo Hanover third.

One-Arm, One-Eyed Kicker Seeks Job With AFL Team

And he doesn't see why he shouldn't have as much of a shot at the job as anyone else.

"The eye has been the bigger handicap," Hight explained. "I've had trouble with distance because with the one eye you have no depth perception. But I seem to make some pretty good educated guesses. The arm makes it difficult balance-wise. I have to compensate for having more weight on one side."

But the handicaps haven't been a problem since he was five and started playing football with the kids in Centralia, Ill. He went on to high school, playing linebacker as well as kicking, also competed in track and hit .285 for the baseball team in junior college.

Then it was on to Southern Illinois, and now finally the Bulls.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 29, the 210th day of 1966. There are 153 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1952, an Air Force Tornado bomber made the first nonstop air-refueled jet flight across the Pacific.

On this date

In 1920, air mail service opened between New York and San Francisco.

In 1939, Nazi Germany and Japan signed a new commercial treaty.

In 1940, the Nazi luftwaffe's all-out blitz against Britain began.

In 1943, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made a peace offer to Italy.

In 1945, the FBI announced that more than 12,000 men had been convicted as draft dodgers.

Ten years ago—Four petroleum tanks near Dumas, Tex., exploded, killing 15 persons and injuring at least 32 others.

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy's disarmament adviser, John McCloy, interrupted a meeting in Moscow with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin to fly back to Washington. He conferred with President Kennedy, reportedly telling him the Kremlin was angered by the President's stand on the Germany and Berlin questions.

One year ago — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant promised President Johnson he would continue to work for a peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam war.

A Junior Editors Quiz About GIRAFFE

QUESTION: Why can't a giraffe make any sound?

ANSWER: Actually, giraffes are not completely voiceless. Zoo keepers and hunters have heard them, at certain times, make mooring sounds. But it is true that the giraffe rarely uses his voice. The reason is that his voice box, or "larynx," where sound is produced in animals and people, is very poorly developed. But the giraffe has other abilities. His long neck enables him to reach tree leaves for food. His eyesight, hearing and sense of smell are all very keen. And from the lofty position where he holds his head, he can look far away and detect dangerous animals before they get too close (A). Then too, his checkerboard body pattern makes him difficult to see when feeding in foliage, which sunlight turns into a checkerboard pattern similar to his own (B). When galloping he can outrun most horses and can also "pace" (C). Lastly, (D), a giraffe can fight. He has dynamite in all four hoofs and can swing that long neck as if it were a club. Using his head as a weight, he can deliver a blow of tremendous force.

FOR YOU TO DO: Guess how many vertebrae there might be in a giraffe's enormous neck. 18, 20, 25? Wrong. There are only 7.

Cindy Coffman of Newton, Kan., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: A new idea in decorating for festive occasions...

Use an angel food cake baked in a tube pan. After the cake is decorated in your favorite style to suit the occasion, place a small glass of fresh or artificial flowers down in the center of the cake.

This makes a very attractive and unusual type of decoration. B. EINERT.

DEAR HELOISE: A hint to travelers:

Mark your luggage with bright colored stick-on tape. Then, when 20 bags that look like yours are together in an airline terminal, depot or bus station, it is a simple matter to spot yours by the colored tape.

HELEN ARCHITECT.

LETTER OF WISDOM.

DEAR HELOISE: Here are some words of wisdom:

"Never retire from something UNLESS you retire TO something, because, in other words, you will get old before your time."

JEANE L. DIXON.

Yes, folks, this is THE famous Jeane Dixon, who has the "Gift of Prophecy."

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Plastic bags of any kind and size are very useful to our boys in the armed forces. They can use the bags to wrap articles they must carry with them, and prevent their things from becoming damp during inclement weather.

A READER.

Dear Heloise: Having a big tummy and small upper torso, I have had a problem of wearing a blouse and skirt.

When I buttoned the blouse to the waistline, pop!... a button would go.

I purchased a blouse which was slit on both sides and found it looked much better on me.

Now when I get a new blouse, I slit the seams on the sides about three or four inches up from the bottom and bind the edges with matching tape.

OLD FATTY.

DEAR HELOISE: I covered a roll of bathroom tissue with colorful adhesive-backed plastic paper, set it on baby's dressing table and stick her diaper pins into the top.

No more fumbling for pins. It's decorative, inexpensive and holds the pins securely.

SANDY BAERNFIELD.

DEAR HELOISE: We are on a budget and just can't afford many of the expensive store toys for our young children.

The only homemade idea we were able to come up with was a board with all sorts of gadgets attached to it... things like hinges, light switches, wheels, hook and eye locks, bells, etc.

Our toddler stops by his gadget board a dozen times a day to test his skill. It's nailed to his wall at a safe height so he won't fall against it and hurt himself.

There must be many good ideas for homemade toys, but we're at our wits end. Please, won't somebody give us more ideas for inexpensive toys that can be made at home?

UNIMAGINATIVE MOM.

How about it folks? I'm sure many, many children have homemade toys which they just love.

Won't you share your ideas with the rest of us? Write to us in care of this paper. Letters do not have to be signed to appear.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I've found that the best soup spoon for older children (and adults too) is a Chinese soup spoon.

Many of the commercial soup spoons are too shallow and the angle of handle to the bowl of spoon is awkward.

BETTIE KAN.

DEAR HELOISE: An ironing board cover that shows signs of wear on the side nearest the person ironing can be turned wrong side out and returned to the board.

This places the worn spot away from the heaviest ironing traffic, thus prolonging the life of the cover.

JEAN KENNEDY.

Future Activities Outlined For Church At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Future activities, including the annual homecoming celebration of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, were discussed during a meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of the church Tuesday night in the parish hall. Mrs. Ray E. Ish, president, presided.

Plans were made for a public card party Aug. 6 at 8 p.m. A country store also will be a feature.

Tentative plans were discussed for the homecoming on Labor Day, which will feature games and amusements on the church grounds and a public roast beef dinner from noon to 6 p.m.

Plans also were made for a bazaar in December.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Ernest Phillips and committee. Mrs. Jerry Kelley was honored with a family party in honor of her birthday Monday evening at her home on Water St. Lunch was served. Mrs. Kelley received gifts.

Wendy Searrey, Sandy Riggs

by and Janice Blackburn have concluded a week's vacation at the Presbyterian Beaver Creek Camp.

James Hunter and son of Wellsville visited here Tuesday.

Mrs. Dorothy Dillworth of Columbus visited Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. Effie Potts, who is ill at the home of Mrs. Linnie Lange on W. Main St.

Mrs. Ruth Smith of Toronto has concluded a visit with her sister, Mrs. Susie Leek of Foundry Hill.

Mrs. Sylvia Hirst has returned from a trip to the southern states.

Mrs. Mary Jane Sherwood and family visited Wednesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Strabley of W. Main St.

Wilson Honored By Home Office

George Wilson of Wellsville R.D. 1, assistant manager of the City Loan and Savings Co. here, was among 200 employees of the company over Ohio honored this week at the home office in Lima.

He received a five-year pin during the annual service award ceremony and 54th birthday anniversary of the company Wednesday and Thursday.

Each year the occasion is held in honor of those employees who have reached each consecutive five-year period of employment. A gold pin is presented, set with a diamond, for each five years of service.

The company started in business at Wapakoneta, Ohio, in 1912 with an upstairs office and two employees. Today it maintains 171 offices all over Ohio and employs more than 1,200.

Money Tastes Good

MIDDLETON, Nova Scotia — Cyril Phinney of Brooklyn lost his wallet with $122 inside, and started to look for it. He found a $20 bill first and then the rest of the money scattered about the yard. Finally his collie pup came around the corner of the house with a well-chewed wallet in his mouth.

J & L Reports Sales, Earnings, Shipments Up

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. said today its earnings, sales and shipments in the first half of 1966 were the best for any like period except when steel users were building inventories.

The company reported net income of $31,066,000 or $3.83 a share on sales of $510,639,000 compared with earnings of $33,545,000 or $4.15 a share on sales of $549,903,000 in the first six months of 1965.

J. & L. Chairman Charles M. Beeghly said last year's figures, like those in 1959, were "abnormally inflated by labor contract negotiations."

Shipments in the first half this year totaled 2,696,000 tons compared with 2,979,000 tons in the same period last year.

Bake until the outside of cream puffs are very firm to the touch. If they are removed from the oven before they are done, they will collapse upon removal.

District Marines Join In Training

East Liverpool and area residents are among those undergoing annual two-week training exercises with the Youngstown Marine Reservists at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

The service platoon of the 3rd Engineer Co. currently is receiving extensive instruction in heavy equipment and motor transport.

Staff Sgt. Frank J. Mitcheson of East Liverpool is one of the leaders of the platoon.
